

HUMAN ISLET TRANSPLANT LABORATORY

Home

The McGill University Health Centre Human Islet Transplant Laboratory is a Health Canada registered establishment. We provide persons afflicted with type 1 diabetes a viable therapeutic option for the treatment and management of this disease through the use of islet cell transplantation. Our facility is also committed in providing researchers around the world with high quality human islets. We hope that our clinical and research programs will help ensure a brighter future for all diabetics.